

DHLGH-OPR Online Information Seminar on the 'Implementation of the New Large-Scale Residential Development (LRD) Arrangements'

Follow-up Information

At the DHLGH-OPR Online Information Seminar in relation to Large-scale Residential Developments on 10 March 2022, there were a number of questions unanswered during the Q&A session due to time constraints. As there were multiple questions on the same topic or area of the legislation, this document provides information in relation to each of these topics in order to address the questions asked.

1. Amendment of SHDs or LRDs or s.34 permissions

- Amendments to a permitted SHD or LRD are provided for in the Planning and Development (Amendment) (Large-scale Residential Development) Act 2021.
- Section 146B of the Planning and Development Act 2000 (the Principal Act) no longer applies to the modification of SHDs.
- Any application to amend a previously permitted SHD/LRD is submitted to the planning authority under the LRD procedures, with modified requirements under section 247(7) and 34(3C) of the Principal Act:
 - The new section 247(7) of the Principal Act provides that for an application which proposes to amend an already approved SHD or LRD, the planning authority may determine that both the pre-application consultations under section 247 and the LRD opinion of the planning authority are not required in cases where the proposed development is substantially the same as the previously permitted development and the nature, scale and effect of any alterations to the permitted development are not such that require the consultation process to be repeated.
 - The new section 34(3C) of the Principal Act provides that the planning authority shall be limited to solely considering the proposed modifications to the previously permitted development and not to reconsidering the original application again in combination with the proposed new modifications.
- Amendments to a previously permitted section 34 application (pre-SHD) which falls under the definition of an LRD should be submitted to the planning authority under the LRD procedures. The modified requirements under section 247(7) and 34(3C) of the Principal Act will not apply to these types of applications. Given the passage of time since a section 34 permission was first decided, it is considered reasonable that these applications are required to go through the pre-application process.

- An application to amend a permitted SHD, LRD or section 34 development is technically a new application for the entire development and as such it is the total number of units in the now proposed development (not the amended units) which will determine whether the new application meets the LRD thresholds for development and is required to comply with the LRD procedures or whether it is below the LRD thresholds and is submitted as a standard section 34 application.

2. Further Information

- The circumstances where requests for further information can be made in respect of an LRD application are set out in the Planning Regulations:
“the planning authority may only request further information in relation to matters of technical or environmental detail, or both, that were unforeseen at the time of the LRD opinion and the time of lodging the LRD planning application, or new matters raised through the planning application public participation process, and such requests for further information with regard to an application for LRD may only be requested once by the planning authority.”
- The LRD further information procedures are aimed at continuing the SHD arrangements which ensured that the full extent of information required was submitted with the application and there was no provision for further information, thereby facilitating proper assessment by stakeholders and the planning authority.
- Further information procedures are not intended to be a second opportunity for submitting or finalising an application. The limitations on further information requests are intended to ensure that the provision of as much information as possible in relation to a proposed development is front-loaded and provided at the earliest stage in the process, in the interests of transparency and full and early public participation.
- The limitations on further information purely relate to matters that would reasonably be expected to have been included in a planning application in the first instance, either generally or as a result of issues discussed or raised as part of the pre-application consultation stages.
- However, acknowledging that there are certain limited circumstances where further information might be required, it is not the intention to prevent requests for further information altogether. The following matters will continue to be able to be addressed by means of further information requests, as deemed appropriate on a case-by-case basis:

- i. matters raised by third parties during the 5 week public consultation stage of a planning application,
- ii. material issues which legitimately could not be foreseen or raised at pre-application stage,
- iii. material errors in documentation and faults or deficiencies in an Environmental Impact Assessment Report (EIAR) or Natura Impact Statement (NIS) or other relevant environmental documentation.
- Further information requests are allowed for matters unforeseen at the time of the LRD opinion and the time of lodging the LRD planning application.
 - i. The section 247 procedure provides an applicant with an opportunity to discuss the proposed development with the planning authority and will inform the development of the documentation to be submitted as part of the LRD opinion process. The outcome of the LRD meeting is an opinion “as to whether or not the documents submitted for the purposes of the meeting constitute a reasonable basis on which to make an application for permission for the proposed LRD”. Anything unforeseen at this stage may be subject to further information.
 - ii. Where the opinion of the planning authority is that the documents submitted for the purposes of the LRD meeting do not constitute a reasonable basis on which to make an application for permission for the proposed LRD it shall specify in the LRD opinion—
 - 1. the areas, or the issues, in respect of which the documents submitted do not constitute a reasonable basis on which to make the application, and
 - 2. any issues that, if addressed by the relevant documents, could result in the documents constituting a reasonable basis on which to make the application.
- The LRD Regulations amended article 22 of the Principal Regulations to provide that where, under section 32D of the Act, the planning authority issued an LRD opinion to the prospective LRD applicant that the documents enclosed with the request for the LRD meeting do not constitute a reasonable basis on which to make the LRD application, the LRD application shall be accompanied by a statement of response to the issues set out in the LRD opinion, which should offset the need for further information if appropriately addressed.
- The timeline for responding to further information requests on an LRD application is detailed in the Planning and Development (Large-scale residential Development) Regulations 2021. A two-month period is allowed for responding to these requests however, this may, on agreement with the planning authority, be extended to six months where the request relates to an Environmental Impact Assessment or Appropriate Assessment.

3. Pre-application Requirements

- The pre-application consultation stage involves two steps in the majority of cases; firstly, the applicant will be required to seek standard pre-application consultation as currently mandated for developments of this scale under section 247 of the Planning Act.
- At that first stage of the process, the planning authority may, within 4 weeks of the receipt of the pre-application consultation request, either arrange the section 247 consultations or, for LRD proposals which propose to amend previously permitted LRDs or SHDs, the planning authority may make a determination under the new section 247(7) that, as the proposed development is substantially the same as the previously permitted development, further pre-application consultations are not required in respect of the development.
- In cases where the initial section 247 pre-application consultation meetings have been held, the second step in the pre-application consultation process involves an “LRD meeting” with the relevant planning authority for the purpose of receiving an “LRD opinion” as to whether the proposals constitute a reasonable basis for submitting a planning application.
- Specified documentation is required to be submitted by the prospective applicant relating to the proposed development with their LRD meeting request, including a site location map, a draft layout of the proposed scheme, details of the proposed house types and design, the housing density, building heights, vehicular access, open space provision, integration with surrounding land uses etc.
- Planning authorities are required to hold the LRD meeting with the prospective applicant within 4 weeks of the request to do so. The planning authority must then issue an LRD opinion within 4 weeks of the meeting taking place on whether the proposals constitute a reasonable basis for submitting a planning application on the LRD proposals. (A written explanation must be provided to the applicant where these timeframes are not met).
- The LRD opinion, or determination under section 247(7), will be valid for 6 months and allows the prospective applicant to progress to application stage i.e. a planning application must be submitted within 6 months of receipt of the LRD opinion. Otherwise, the prospective applicant must re-start the process again.

- Section 32C(5) in relation to the LRD meeting records provides that “A record kept by a planning authority under subsection (4) shall only be made public when a planning application in respect of the proposed development is made in accordance with section 34.”
- The new section 32D(2A) provides that: “The LRD opinion issued by a planning authority under subsection (1) shall be made public when a planning application in respect of the proposed development is made in accordance with section 34.”
 - These provisions are intended to provide that the meeting records and opinion do not need to be released until an application is lodged.
 - The SHD Act did not have similar provisions.

4. Resources

- Matters regarding staffing and resource allocations are a matter for relevant planning authorities.
- Under the LRD arrangements, the relevant fees payable will be retained in full by planning authorities which will assist them in funding the increased staffing resources required for the new LRD arrangements from their own resources.
- The Department is engaging with the LGMA and CCMA with regard to resourcing requirements for planning authorities, which will include any resources required to support the LRD arrangements.

5. Material Contraventions

- The existing provisions regarding material contraventions will apply to LRDs.
- Under the current arrangements set out in the Planning Acts, a planning authority may decide to grant permission where a proposed development would materially contravene the development plan provided that the requirements set out in section 34(6) of the Act are complied with. The new LRD system does not amend that provision.
- Similarly, the Act already provides that in cases on appeal, the Board may grant planning permission for a proposed development that materially contravenes the development plan in specified circumstances.
- Material contravention is a longstanding feature of the planning system and there are no plans to amend the existing material contravention provisions at this time.

6. Website and availability of documentation

- The LRD Regulations insert a new article 20A into the Principal Regulations, which provides that an LRD applicant shall make a copy of the application including any EIAR and/or NIS available for inspection online from the date of making the application until 8 weeks following the planning authority decision.
 - If the decision is appealed, the application shall continue to be made available online until 8 weeks after the Boards decision.
- The Planning and Development Act 2000 (Section 38) Regulations 2020 provide that planning authorities shall upload all planning application documents onto their websites not later than 5 working days after the day on which they receive the documents relating to the application, subject to certain exceptional circumstances.

7. Extension of duration

- Further guidance in this regard will be made available in due course.

8. Development Plans and LRD

- In accordance with the provisions of s34 of the Planning Act, in making a decision on a planning application, including an LRD application, a planning authority, or the Board on appeal, must consider the proper planning and sustainable development of the area, having regard to the provisions of the development plan or local area plan, any submissions or observations received from the public and the statutory consultees, and any relevant Ministerial or Government policies, including any guidelines issued by the Department, and shall apply any specific planning policy requirements of guidelines issued by the Minister.

9. Central LRD Database

- The Department does not intend to bring in a central LRD database.
- The LRD Regulations provide that where an application relates to an LRD, the weekly lists should indicate that fact.
 - i. This will ensure that LRDs are specifically identifiable on weekly lists and annual planning statistics.

10. Irish Forms

- A copy of the LRD forms in Irish is available and is included as an attachment.

11. Engagement with Prescribed Bodies

- As an LRD application is an application under section 34 of the Principal Act, the requirements in relation to notice to certain bodies under article 28 of the Planning and Development Regulations 2001 apply.

12. Online pre-application meetings

- The hosting of pre-planning meetings is a matter for the relevant planning authority.

13. LRDs - Appeals and JRs

- The ultimate goal of the LRD process is to provide a system which maintains the quality of applications seen under SHD, while also providing as much certainty of timelines as possible to prospective applicants which will assist in addressing the ongoing housing crisis.
- By enhancing the pre-application process, the quality of applications should be an improvement on the applications previously dealt with under the section 34 process prior to the introduction of SHD. Better quality applications should lead to fewer appeals to the Board.
- The inclusion of a new mandatory timeframe for appeals for these types of proposals, means that those applications that are appealed will be dealt with in a timely manner.
- By employing a two-stage decision-making process which allows for appeals to the Board, and increased public consultation at local level, it is considered that the number of decisions regarding large-scale housing developments subject to judicial review will be reduced.

14. What is the final date for receipt of SHD applications, which were in receipt of an opinion on 17 December 2021?

- Both the Department and An Bord Pleanála consider that April 19th is the final day for the submission of SHD applications (for those prospective applicants who were issued with an ‘Opinion’ by the 17th December 2021).
